Native American Development Corporation

Billings Metro VISTA Project members served with the Native American Development Corporation (NADC) and assisted in the development and initial support of the Billings Urban Indian Health and Wellness Center (BUIHWC). Since its doors opened in 2018, BUIHWC has offered culturally competent healthcare and a strong community network for low-income Native Americans living on and off Reservations. These BMVP members were crucial in helping the NADC to expand its marketing, outreach, events, and promotional / educational materials, thus resulting in expanded access for Urban Natives throughout Yellowstone County.
